IS A LOCAL ISSUE

The Rich Hill Review last week devoted a half a column to an editorial criticising the attitude of The Times upon the third term question, and in pointing out where in we were "inconsistent" Col. Walters takes his readers to Henry county; carries them into the halls of congress; tells of Mr. Bryan's objections to the third term, and winds up with the assertion that our stand is a direct blow at certain gentlemen who are candidates for a second term.

We fear our editorial stating our views on the question at issue must have been a little abstruse for our Rich Hill friend, and we again repeat that the issue which confronts the Democrats of Bates county is the question of a third term for county officials, and whether or not the precedents of the party in this matter shall be overthrown.

We do not protest against a second term; and we would remind the Review that the customs of the party have been to give legislative officers not one, two or three, but several terms, and this rule is a good one, for in most instances a man must serve several terms in Congress to attain the recognition so necessary to his usefulness.

True, as the Review says, Bates county has had several candidates who have had three terms, but these three terms have been as candidates, and not three terms in office, and we do not believe that more than one man in the entire history of the county has served three terms in county office.

The Times does not question the right of any man to aspire for office, nor would we attempt to limit the number of times he might be permitted to become a candidate, but we do believe and maintain that the people of the county have set a wise precedent in the matter of giving county offices and we have great confidence in the wisdom and good judgment of the voters who have not and will without doubt maintain this precedent.
